

Note from the Editors

Dear readers,

NWR has come of age and reached its 10th annual volume since its foundation back in 2012. Our intention was, and still is, to publish original contributions of high quality on all aspects of Wittgenstein's thought and work. In addition, through the journal's connection to the Wittgenstein Archives at the University of Bergen, we have a special focus on publishing archival material in our "From the Archives" section. We are also pleased that we have been able to publish an invited paper, by an acknowledged member of the Wittgenstein research community, in each issue.

Unfortunately, this anniversary volume was delayed due to circumstances related to the pandemic and is now published as the 2021–2022 volume. We do, however, expect to get back on schedule and intend to publish Volume 11 as the annual 2022 volume. We also expect to be able to publish our third ever Special Issue later this year, this time on the topic of Wittgenstein and Feminism.

We want to take this opportunity to thank all those who have during the past 10 years offered their time and expertise to help us maintain the quality of our journal, in particular all our expert reviewers.

Finally, we are happy to announce that all back issues of our journal can now be ordered in print through our print on demand solution. Click on "Print on Demand" on the homepage and you will be directed to our webshop.
